Please scroll down for August 5, August 12, August 19 and August 26

Tuesday, August 5 Race Results

For the first time in 3 years of promoting Thursday and now Tuesday night track racing I laid down my whistle and jumped into the fray. It was a bit of a selfish act but I am so excited about Masters Track Nationals happening here in San Jose in a few weeks that I could barely contain myself. Of course, I could not have done so without the help from Angela, Jeff, Ali and Cathy (the birthday girl). The best part is that they picked up the routine in a flash which gives my wife hope that I won't volunteer for 25 weeks in 2009. Thank you!

Thanks to the athletes for their continued promptness in getting to the fence to start the races as quickly as possible. In doing so we're able to add laps so that's more points to sprint for!

Brownie primes were provided once again by Dash, Jen and Marc. I will be sending out a survey soon asking about primes, prizes and entry fees so please get prepared to share your views

Tuesday, August 12 Race Results

31 starters for the A-B 84 lap points race! Super 70 degree temps.

The beauty of A, B, C racing is that you seed yourself. Want a great workout? Jump into the As and try to win. Slap on bigger gears or lighten em up. Work on skills instead of fitness. So many possibilities with the Tuesday night races.

Points Racing continues at the track through September 23 (excluding September 2 for masters track nationals). Five Tuesdays remain in 2008. Come out and race under the lights (something that neither Oakland or San Jose twilights have!)

Brownie primes were provided once again by Dash, Jen and Marc. Thank you!

Tuesday, August 26 Race Results

Our new track sponges are in!

Above all, I'm a cycling fan. We had some great racing on Tuesday night. One of the best moments of the year came in the first As race on the last sprint of the 48 lap race. Ben Jacques-Mayne was leading Dirk Copeland by one point. Dirk just barely took Ben at the line. Great racing!

Week #25, whew. It was a beautiful night with calm 70 degree temps. And, the racing was hot. Thank you to all the riders that have supported this series and I look forward to some great racing in our final three Tuesdays of 2008 (September 9, 16 and 23).

Brownie primes were provided once again by Dash, Jen and Marc. Thank you!
